Flemming Hurls Attack At Democratic Policies

Ulster County Does Not Want New York City's Experience With Bonded Indebtedness, He Says—Funds Wasted by Work Relief Commission Cited—Closing Meeting a Rousing One.

Hurling a smashing attack on Democratic policies as announced by the leaders of the local Democratic organization, Attorney Harry H. Fleming was the principal speaker at the closing meeting of the Republican Club in the Modern Hall on Grand street Thursday evening at one of the most stirring and rousing meetings held by the club. During the evening several acts of local vanderliffe were introduced by Al-German Paul Zucca and so good were they that they were forced to respond to encores.

Mr. Fleming said that the power to tax is also the power to destroy and that the question of taxation had been one that had agitated society through the ages. In Kingston this fall he raised the question of whether or not we should be governed in city and county by a Republican or a Democratic administration.

Personalities did not amount to much, it was the policies that the parties stood for that was of vital interest to the voters. The Democratic party in Ulster County endorses the pledge that if elected it will proceed to bond Ulster County the same as had been done in Kingston where within the past two years over $500,000 in bonded indebtedness has accumulated while the Republican party over a period of 20 years in control of county affairs has enforced the pay as you go policy and as a result the county is the only county in the state that is without bonded indebtedness.

As an example of the Democratic policy of bonded indebtedness Mr. Fleming cited the building of the county jail which was paid for by a bond issue, but by the time the bonds were finally paid for taxpayers of city and county had paid out an almost equal amount in interest charges.

What happens when a city or county keeps piling one bond issue onto another is shown by the financial condition today in New York City. Mr. Fleming said that 20 years ago Kingston's school system had a bonded indebtedness of about $350,000, but the board under Republican control had wiped that out and had expended the sum of $220,000 in addition to one of the schools and over $100,000 in additions and betterments to the school system, and paid for it, but if you will look over your tax bills you will find school taxes in the city were kept consistently low. The school tax rate of Kingston last year was next to the lowest rate in the state of New York.

Strap Votes for Work. The Republican party believes in adequate provision for the needs of the city and that the funds raised for welfare work shall be honestly spent, not bargained off for votes for supervisors or aldermen or any other candidate.

What is the record of the Democratic candidate for mayor? For the past two years he had been a prominent member of the board of public works and also the work relief commission.

Wasted Funds Cited. Take the question of compensation insurance. Under the administration of Mayor Dempsey the city became a self insuring thereby saving the taxpayers thousands of dollars. What happened the past two years? The board of public works has expended $20,000 for insurance premiums and the work relief $18,000. This $38,000 could have been saved from going into the pockets of the insurance companies and used in giving work to idle men.

The Man on Top. The Republican party is not assailing the records of the men who worked on the jobs, but are assailing the men in charge of work relief, the men on top, for not having a workable plan whereby funds would not have been wasted and the city would have received some good from the money expended, he said.

Mr. Fleming spoke of the Boulevard project which will cost $104,000 to finish. He said that when the Democratic candidate for mayor bid the board of public works, after he had said that he had gone to Albany and he had arranged to have the Boulevard completed at a cost of $57,000, and that the city should be proud of that achievement.

The billiard room at Forest Park was also cited by Mr. Fleming as a waste of funds for it was to have cost $1,000 and cost over $1,000.

Mr. Fleming said that when Mayor Dempsey was serving the city that he had arranged to purchase Hasbrouck Park for the sum of

Former Assemblyman Tells of Water Bills

Keshonken, N. Y., November 2, 1933

To The Editor of The Freeman:

I served in the Assembly of the State Legislature for eight years, from 1925 to 1932. In practically every year I was there, certainly for the last five years, there was a bill in the Senate to exempt city water works systems from taxation. One year, I think it was in 1931, the bill passed the Senate and it was only after energetic work by Assemblyman Fiske of Schoharie and myself, among others, with the help of the speaker that prevented its passage in the Assembly.

After the city of Albany completed its new water system it came with a bill to the Assembly to exempt its dam and aqueduct from local taxation and that bill got as far as a hearing in the Assembly, but I had notified the farmers interested and they had representatives at the hearing where the bill was killed.

Bills exempting water works systems from taxation are no new things in the legislature.

Yours very truly,

MILLARD DAVIS.

Browning Replies To Dewitt Letter

November 2, 1933

Editor The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

As Henry R. DeWitt, former member of the New York State Assembly, has seen fit to deny the accuracy of statements made by me in various campaign speeches, and has used your columns in an attempt to refute these statements, may I have the privilege of making a reply?

Mr. DeWitt has adroitly diverted the minds of the electorate away from my statements and in a direction at variance with the facts I have set forth.

Much ado has been made of my repeated assertion that never has the Assembly voted on a bill exempting taxation the dikes and dams of the Ashokan reservoir.

In the course of a year, as Mr. DeWitt well knows, thousands of bills are introduced in the Assembly. Many of these are solely for the purpose of pleasing the folks at home, and others because some particular legislator is faithful to a certain idea.

Since the building of the Ashokan reservoir up to the present time, so many thousands of bills have been introduced in the Assembly that it would be manifestly impossible in the stress of a campaign for a candidate to go through such a mass of literature. But the fact remains, however, and the records show it to be a fact—that the Assembly has never voted on a bill providing for the exemption of the Ashokan dikes and dams. That fact is irrefutable, and this is what I have asserted in my speeches.

Mr. DeWitt's speech delivered on the 12th of last month as reported in the press led to a general belief that such a bill had been voted upon and further that all Democratic Assemblymen had voted in favor of it. Mr. DeWitt has mentioned a bill introduced in 1915 by Alfred E. Smith. Perhaps Mr. DeWitt seems not to know, as he failed to mention it, that the same bill was introduced in the Senate by no less a personage than Ogden L. Mills himself—Ogden L. Mills, for years the Republican member in the Senate, the Republican candidate for governor a few years ago, and since secretary of the treasury in President Hoover's cabinet.

No one can say Ogden L. Mills was controlled by Tammany. No one can say he ever had any love for Tammany, for all through his political career he has been one of Tammany's bitter enemies. Yet we

Man Shot In Chair Believed Connected With Former Killing

Gangland Victim "Spotted" While Being Manicured Thought Linked With Gus Winkler Death—Third Death Following 1932 Chicago Mail Robbery.

Chicago, Nov. 3 (AP)—The ever-lengthening list of victims of gangland tactics was increased with the addition of the name of Harry Teuber—shot to death by an unidentified assassin as he sat in a manicurist's chair in a North Clark street barber shop.

Hardly had his body been taken from the shop, punctured by four pistol bullets, yesterday afternoon, than the police began speculating on a theory that Teuber's death might be a sequel to the recent slaying of Gus Winkler, north side gangster, and the suicide of Edgar B. Lebensberger, owner of the Swanky 225 Club.

Neighbors of the slain man told police that Teuber had some connection with the club. He was 32 years old.

Lebensberger shot himself to death after his indictment in connection with a $250,000 mail robbery in Chicago in 1932, and Winkler was subsequently put to death presumably because he knew too much about the theft and was on the verge of "squealing" to federal investigators.

Teuber was greeted by an unidentified man who entered the shop and shouted "Hello, Harry" just before the gunman fired. Herbert Pons, owner of the shop, told police the slayer apparently entered a rear room of the place and fired through a door.

Miss Ethel Gauss, the manicurist, was sprayed with glass, but was uninjured.

At an apartment the police said they found Teuber's belongings packed ready for shipment to New Orleans and Police Lieutenant Otto Erlanson said this evidence of an impending flight supported the theory that Teuber may have been connected with Lebensberger.

SENTENCES YOUTH FOR GAS STATION MURDER

Athol, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—Lorne Lally, 18, of Niagara Falls, who said he shot Francis McAllister, gasoline station attendant, to death because he was afraid of being arrested in a stolen car, was found guilty today of second degree murder. He was immediately sentenced to 30 years to life imprisonment.

The jury had been considering the case since noon yesterday. It was locked up for the night at midnight last night when it had not been able to agree. Court attendants said then all but two of the jurors were in favor of first degree murder.

McAllister was shot the night of June 10, last, when he jumped on the running board of an automobile carrying two men and two girls who sped away without paying for gasoline.

TYPHOON SWEEPS AWAY LEAVING TOLL OF DEATH

Manila, P. I., Nov. 3 (AP)—The second deadly typhoon to sweep the Visayas group of the Philippine archipelago within a week moved northward across the China Sea today, leaving dead variously estimated at between 20 and 30 and heavy property damage.

Accompanied by a torrential down-pour, the wind reaching a velocity of 100 miles an hour destroyed hundreds of the natives' picturesque grass huts, wrecked numerous other buildings and many small boats.

The Red Cross in Manila moved to send relief. In some instances authorizing provincial chairmen to meet the emergency.

STUYVESANT STREET MAN REPORTED MISSING HERE

Thursday night the police department received a request to aid in the search for Calvin Cullen, 52, of 37 Stuyvesant street, who is reported missing from home. According to Mr. Cullen's son, his father was last seen when he drove to work to the Devo cider mill. The missing man is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. When last seen he wore overalls.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—The position of the treasury November 1 was: Receipts $918,351,165.07; expenditures $124,847,254.19; balance $793,503,910.88. Customs receipts $1,359,971,182.45. Customs receipts for the month $1,224,264.57. Revenues for fiscal year to date since July 1, 1933, $1,781,826,951; expenditures $1,458,524,442.71 (including $426,554,265.49 emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $341,341,515.72.

THERE IS NO ANSWER

Actual figures, taken from the record of the Emergency Work Relief Board, indicate extravagance, waste and inefficiency in that board's operations. No answer has been made by Mr. Flanagan to refute these facts, because there is no answer.

National Ulster County Bank

New Bank Is 100% Sound and With Exceptional Liquidity

TO THE DEPOSITORS OF THE NATIONAL ULSTER COUNTY BANK & TRUST COMPANY:

You have learned through the press that the reorganized, or New Bank, will be open for business on November 4th. The name is somewhat changed and the personnel of officers and directors is new, but it will be YOUR bank for its organization was made possible largely through the waiving of 25% of your deposits, as to which you will receive certificates of participation, and through the subscription to new stock which most depositors made and as to which they will also receive a certificate; a substantial portion of amount waived will come back to you from liquidation of trusted assets; and we believe the stock will increase in value from year to year dependent, of course, upon the success of the institution, the success measured largely by the support the stockholders give to their bank.

The delay has been greater than we anticipated, but it could not be helped, the details of closing one bank and opening another, the liquidation of assets, all involving more than six thousand accounts, and over 1,000 items of assets, and the fact that the method of reorganization was under a new law as to which the procedure was not established, made the work very slow; and all connected with the work involved appreciate the patience shown by the depositors.

You now have, however, the satisfaction of knowing that you have at your disposal a bank over 100% liquid and all the assets of sound value as ascertained and approved by the United States Government officials. These assets consist exclusively of cash and of high grade securities of actual current market value, liquid and good loans, and bank premises.

The following is an approximate statement of its condition at its opening on the 4th day of November, 1933.

This bank owns:
Cash	$ 778,454.52
U. S. Government Securities	257,000.00
Bonds of Railroads, Public Utilities and Other Corporations	1,043,109.65
Federal Reserve Bank Stock	9,000.00
Notes unsecured	63,000.00
Notes secured by marketable collateral	223,403.06
Bonds and Mortgages	61,725.00
Redemption Fund	7,500.00
Banking House	46,562.34
Furniture and Fixtures	4,629.91
Total	$2,494,384.48
This Bank owes:
Depositors' balance payable on demand	$2,044,384.48
Capital stock	250,000.00
Surplus funds	50,000.00
Circulation Bank Notes	150,000.00
Total	$2,494,384.48

Depositors having time deposits will need to surrender their old books and in place thereof take new books for the old balance, less amount waived and less stock subscriptions, if made, with entry of amount they need to withdraw. This will take several minutes for each depositor in order that no errors be made by the tellers and clerks and it is estimated that the actual transfer of accounts to the new books will take the better part of a week. New Bank Will Be Opened On Saturday For Business

Word Received From Washington Today Officially Opening New Institution Here—New Bank Is Making Application For Grant of Trust Powers In Addition To The Powers of National Banks.

The National Ulster County Bank, formerly the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company, which has been closed since the banking holiday, and under the guidance of Conservator Willis G. Nash, will be opened for regular business Saturday morning by order of the Comptroller of Currency.

The order of termination reads "the conservatorship of the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company will be terminated on the 4th day of November, 1933, at 8:00 o'clock a. m., and that on said day and at said time the assets and control of said bank will be returned to its board of directors for carrying out the plan of reorganization of said bank including the transfer of certain of its assets on said date to The National Ulster County Bank of Kingston."

On Saturday morning the regular Saturday banking hours will be observed, at which time the work of reorganization and plans for carrying on a regular banking business will be carried out. The procedure necessary for depositors in the old bank to go through will be found elsewhere in The Freeman in a statement issued by the depositors' committee, which has worked long and earnestly to attain the result now achieved.

The bank being opened with the full approval of federal authorities indicates that it has a strong financial structure and is exceptionally liquid.

The opening bank will operate under a new charter, with a personnel of new directors and officers. However ninety-nine per cent of the stockholders are former depositors or stockholders of the old bank. The name has been sufficiently changed so that confusion will not result. The new bank is making application for grant of trust powers in addition to the powers of National Banks.

The reorganization has been made possible by the waiving by depositors and creditors of 25 per cent of their claims, such waivers being binding on all when 75 per cent had signed the written agreement. For the 25 per cent waived, depositors will be given a participation certificate entitling the holder to his share of proceeds of certain so-called slow, doubtful and bad assets, and of certain unsold securities, and it is expected that through these trusted assets, depositors will, from time to time, receive substantial parts of the amount waived.

The new bank assumes the liability for the 75 per cent of deposits and claims not waived. To enable such new bank to assume such liability, it will take over from the old bank only the higher grade securities at market value, the liquid and good notes and loans, all known as "acceptable assets", banking house and equipment and cash from the old bank augmented by sales of lower securities. In addition, 25,000 shares of new stock have been sold, having a par of $10, but sold for $12 per share. The entire $300,000 has already been actually paid in to the Bankers Trust Company as depository so it can be available upon the opening day. Much of this new stock has been taken by the old depositors by charges against their accounts, a considerable amount by old stockholders and further amounts by new investors who believed the stock, at the price offered, a good investment. The stock is therefore widely distributed—there will be over 2,000 stockholders, each of whom will have an interest in the success of the institution.

The directors of the new bank who will serve until the first regular meeting of stockholders in January, 1934, are as follows:

James H. Betts
William B. Byrne
Raphael Cohen
E. Frank Flanagan
Joseph M. Fowler
J. Gates Holcombe
Harry Hynes
J. E. Klock
Chauncey M. Lane
John W. Matthews
Dow S. Myers
Thomas O'Hara
Arthur Rice

Howard A. Lewis, who has been one of the most active of the Depositors' Committee and who is included in the list of directors approved by the department, was called to England prior to the receipt of the necessary application for charter and so could not qualify by execution of the necessary documents and therefore cannot serve until after his return.

The directors chosen as officers to serve until the annual meeting and election are as follows:

President—J. E. Klock
Vice-president—John W. Matthews
Executive vice-president and treasurer—E. H. Remmert Cashier—Charles Snyder
Attorneys—Fowler & Connelly

It is assumed that the personnel of tellers and clerical staff will remain substantially as in the old bank.

All the foregoing, except Mr. Remmert, are well known in Ulster county and have been active in local business or professional life. The directors feel that they are fortunate in having secured the services of Mr. Remmert as executive vice-president. He was for more than twelve years with Blake Brothers & Company, commercial bankers, and for five years thereafter with Hathaway, Smith, Folds & Company, note and investment brokers, and for the past two years with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as a chief examiner. He comes with the full approval of the officials of the Federal Reserve Bank and of the chief national bank examiner of this district. He has a knowledge of investment securities which will make him very valuable to the institution.

Grew With Country and City. The week of May 11-15, 1931, marked the celebration of 100 years of service to this community of The National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company, the oldest bank in Ulster county. From humble beginnings, but under the leadership of A. Brury Hasbrouck, president of the bank from 1851 to 1849, when he resigned to become the president of Rutgers College, the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company grew steadily with the business of the country, ministering to the financial needs of the county and aiding wherever a bank could be of service.

A comparison of statements issued by the bank show that this old financial institution has grown as the wealth and population of Kingston increased. A statement made in 1844 shows that it was able to lend substantially as in the old bank.

All the foregoing, except Mr. Remmert, are well known in Ulster county.

Commended Abroad, Condemned at Home By Local Democrats

To the People of Ulster County:
On Monday morning, October 30, 1933, I was called up on the phone through another county office, by a representative of one of the newspapers of Dutchess County to give information as to our county affairs.

Our General County tax rate, our bonded indebtedness, and our temporary indebtedness.

After I was convinced that it was an honest request, I gave the information desired, to-wit: That our general tax rate for the county, outside of the City of Kingston, was $11.42 per thousand of assessment, and inside the City of Kingston was $3.46 per thousand of assessment, that we had no bonded indebtedness, and no temporary loans.

The man on the other end of the wire said: "Mr. DeWitt, this information is desired not for the purpose of criticizing your county but for the purpose of comparison, which is greatly in favor of your county. We congratulate your county on such a record. How could it be done?"

Similar messages, with similar statements, have been received by me, not only from many other counties in the state, but also from the state of New Jersey, and the comparison was always in favor of our county.

It seems strange to me that our county is a shining example throughout the rest of the state, but that locally, especially to the Democrats, we are an horrible example.

This is for the reason of our Democratic friends, but also of any others who are interested.

Why do the other counties of the state commend us, and certain local people and organizations condemn us?

HENRY R. DEWITT,
Clerk,
Board of Supervisors.

DEPARTS ON ANNUAL TRIP TO FAR NORTH

Canadian Ship Faces Peril of Drifting Ice.

Vancouver.—The twenty-second annual arctic cruise of the Hudson's Bay company got under way with the departure from this port recently of the R. S. Argo, Capt. R. D. L. Johnson, R. N. R., commanding.

Eighteen times Vancouver has welcomed the arctic ships back. Three did not return. Two were caught in the summer ice pack, that tremendous area of floating floes that slowly rotates in tidal and air currents around Point Barrow, heading, in the fall, north and west to join the pack that is anchored for all time near the North pole. The third ship was kept in the western arctic by her owners to distribute supplies, from Herschel Island to extreme eastern trading posts.

Many Narrow Escapes.
These arctic adventures commenced in 1912 with the Ruby, a wooden schooner with an auxiliary plant of 160 horsepower. The pioneer voyage was arranged by A. Bassett, fur trade inspector for the company. The master was an experienced northern whaler and trader. Then, as now, ships bound around Barrow had to adjust their sailing to a period in summer when balmy southern winds loosened the polar field from its winter grip and shoved the ice pack out from the land, leaving ice-jotted lanes of open water to the wider seas north of Canada.

More than once a company ship has slipped through the narrowing channel between the pack and the land and seen the ice lock with the shore, right under the stern of the speeding vessel. First to be caught in the ice was the 1916 vessel, the MacPherson, commanded by a famous Indian trader and Bering sea sealer, Captain Buckholz. Icebound off the Alaskan coast, she wintered there, and next year was sent to Herschel Island, remaining in the arctic for more than ten years before being relieved.

The Lady Kindersley, trapped by the icefield in 1924, wrote a stirring chapter of history of conquest of the arctic. Commanded by Capt. Gus Foelmer, who died three months ago, she had made two successful voyages, but on August 6, 1924, was caught just south of Point Barrow. For the rest of the month the master and crew fought to free the ship, while the wind blew the icepack almost opposite the mouth of the Mackenzie river, then west and north toward the Siberian coast. With axes, dynamite, and steam the crew managed to keep the vessel in a small lake, but despite their efforts the frost gradually closed in.

Abandon Ship.
Rescue ships, including the ill-fated Baychimo, hovered helplessly on the edge of the pack. Finally Captain Foelmer gave the order to abandon the ship, with its million dollar cargo of furs. The crew started across the icepack, which was badly broken. They had almost given up hope of reaching the rescue ships when Eskimos, with sledges and a skin boat, reached them and transported them to safety. The Lady Kindersley has never since been definitely reported, although there have been rumors that she finally was looted by Siberian natives off the Kolyma river.

The Baychimo succeeded the Lady Kindersley until 1931, when, outbound from the arctic, she was badly crushed by the icepack south of Point Barrow. Captain Cornwall made camp ashore and lighted practically all the cargo. He remained until the ship disappeared. Then another stirring chapter of arctic history was written by American air men, who saved the crew and the whole of the cargo. The Baychimo thereafter became a ghost ship. Again and again she appeared. Once an Eskimo party reached her, but had great difficulty getting back. For the last year she has not been reported. Her master, R. J. Summers, is chief officer of the Argo, which carries many of her crew.

ASSEMBLY

ROBERT F. BROWNING

Unbossed and Unafraid.

Political spell-binders are trying to make the voters believe the election of Robert F. Browning will cause the removal of New York City assessments from the tax rolls of the towns of Hurley, Olive and Marlborough, and of Ulster County.

A non-partisan committee of the Ulster County Taxpayers' Council has made a diligent search of the records and has made an official report to the Taxpayers' Council that the Ashokan Reservoir charges are political bunk and bunk!

The record shows that Robert F. Browning as assessor of the Town of Hurley is the man who started the fight to assess the Dikes and Dams of the Ashokan Reservoir, who led the fight to assess them and who won the fight to assess millions of dollars worth of property that Republican Leadership had never assessed and he will fight to keep it assessed!

Ulster County needs a representative who is unbossed, unafraid, who will consult his constituents in open frankness and who will subordinate his personal political fortunes to the desires of the voters of this district.

 THE AMENDMENTS

One Proposition and four proposed Amendments to the State Constitution will be up for action by the voters at the election next Tuesday, and as usual, the vote will again demonstrate the utter futility of the only form of pure democracy that exists in the state of New York by the fact that a minority of voters will decide the questions, the majority being too mentally indolent to express an opinion.

The Proposition is the familiar one of authorizing a bond issue, this time of $50,000,000 to supply funds for further unemployment relief.
 As the Governor, the Legislature, all of the charitable organizations of up-lifters are clamoring in support of this amendment and are supported by all the candidates who are seeking votes and all the politicians who are seeking jobs that will pay them well for the congenial task of spending other people's money, the Proposition will doubtless pass by a huge majority.

Amendment No. 1 applies to the city of New York and is intended to provide a method of fixing the price to be paid for private property in the city that is taken for city purposes.
 Amendment No. 2 extends the preference to war veterans who were residents and citizens of this state to those who were residents but not citizens at the time they enlisted.

Amendment No. 3 would permit
 the state to cut trees to make way for a public road in Hamilton county.
 The new road will replace a winding narrow road that menaces the safety of motorists in wet seasons. Even during the spring and fall months there is a heavy stream of cars over this route as it is in the heart of the Central Adirondacks. The short-cut route by state road from Speculator to Indian Lake is more than 150 miles long, although the new road will only be 27. It seems extremely silly that the state has a constitutional provision so unwise that this amendment is required as a preliminary to a needed public improvement.

Amendment No. 4, authorizes the sale of a useless barge canal terminal in New York city. That this amendment is required in order that the state may sell a piece of useless property seems another illustration of the trouble that a clumsy law may cause.

Any voter may read in the newspapers or obtain at his polling place
 the full text of these amendments, but few will do so.

MR. CONWAY'S RECORD

A desperate attempt has been and is being made to injure the candidacy of J. Edward Conway for re-election to the Assembly and to overcome the effect of the excellent record he made during his first term in the state legislature by intimating that he voted against the ratification of the federal child labor amendment and by inference that he is in favor of child labor.

The charge has been made on the political platform and in literature distributed, notably a circular purporting to have been distributed by a "non-partisan" committee that is seeking to secure votes for his opponent.

As a matter of fact Mr. Conway did not vote against the ratification of the child labor amendment, for the very good reason, if for no others, that it did not come up for a vote, but was killed in the Assembly committee.

The amendment has far reaching effect and is highly controversial and had it come to a final vote and had Assemblyman Conway voted in the negative he would have found himself voicing the attitude of many prominent men and organizations throughout the United States.

Among those who opposed the adoption of the amendment when it was brought up for action last summer were former Attorney General
 George W. Wickersham, Dr. Nicholas

Murray Butler and the New York State Committee of Catholic Charities

The amendment was brought before the legislature at the extraordinary session in August through a special message from Governor Leman, who himself called attention to the fact that up to that time but 12 states had ratified the amendment.
 It was held that inasmuch as the legislature had been called only to consider an emergency, the recommendation that there be jammed through the legislature in the closing days of an extraordinary session an amendment of such far-reaching effect and upon which there was such a wide difference of opinion, was not only an improper recommendation, but bore all the earmarks of being a political move, made to create an issue for this fall's campaign. The use that has been made of it this fall in an attempt to misrepresent Assemblyman Conway's motives and actions would seem to bear out the charge that the whole thing was a political move.

The same criticism—that the charges are made for political purposes solely and in very questionable good faith—can justly be made regarding the attacks made, in public speeches and in the anonymous
 "non-partisan" circular, on Assemblyman Conway's vote on a number of other measures.

One veteran legislator said of these bills, "They are measures which have been kicking around Albany ever since I have been here. To discuss each one of them on its merits would be a job not worth undertaking. They are old political hacks, introduced perfunctorily every year by Democrats, simply for the sake of attempting to embarrass our Republican members." Even at that the Democratic Senate did not pass these same bills.

The fact is that, due to advanced labor laws in force in New York state, industries are leaving this state for other sections at an alarming rate. The Republican party has consistently refused to handicap industry in this state by foolish legislation.

As to the child labor problem, it does not exist in New York state at all. The laws relating to the employment of minors in this state are extremely drastic. The truth is that they have been frequently criticized because they prevent boys from contributing to the support of their families in a manner that would not in any way injure their health or well being. New York state certainly does not need federal laws which might lead only to confusion and uncertainty.

TRUTH VS. RUMOR.

"Stop the publication of every daily and weekly newspaper in this country for just one short week—can you picture the results?" asks the Glen Cove, N. Y., Record. "You yourself would be one of a wild-eyed, panic-stricken nation, completely out of hand, victims of stories you and others like you have started, stories gathering impetus with every repetition, simply because there were no newspapers to deny them. One of the greatest services a newspaper gives is to reduce rumors to their truths."

A press which is not free is about as bad as no press at all. In the countries which now have a government-controlled press truth is frequently suppressed or distorted to fit the ideas the ruling group wants to put across. Rumors may not grow so fast under such conditions as if there were no newspapers at all, but sooner or later they will get started, and the effort at rigid censorship will fail. Americans who grumble about the "sensationalism" or "ob-structionism" of newspapers are exercising an inherent right, but in their thoughtful moments they should be thankful for having a press which can and does express its honest opinions and tell the news as it learns it.

STOMACH DISTURBANCES

In a series of 942 patients in Munich complaining of stomach disturbance, where operation was considered as the probable treatment, 186 had cancer, 514 had ulcer, while the remainder, 514, had no real stomach trouble as far as any changes in the structure of the stomach could be found.

This means then that of this large number of cases thought to have a condition needing a surgical operation more than one half were not in need of surgery at all.

Examination revealed that the cause of the symptoms in the stomach was irregularities in the acid condition of the stomach. Digestive juice—not enough acid, too much acid, or practically no acid whatever.
 Other causes were a "dropped" or low position of the stomach which prevented it emptying itself properly, and also a "spastic" or partially

Outrageous Fortune

STORY: Jim Randal, struggling to regain his memory of the last few weeks, finds the answer in a letter from his wife. He has been told by his friends that he is a millionaire.
 But he is not. He is a poor man.
 He is a poor man who has been told that he is a millionaire.
 He is a poor man who has been told that he is a millionaire.

THE MAJOR CALLS

AS JIM RANDAL entered the free library in Lexington, a car stopped at Miss Patsy Arbuthnot's window and a small dapper man got out. He slammed the door of the car behind him, unlocked open the gate, marched up the path to the front door, and delivered a smart rap-knock.

He wore an air of military importance, and after the briefest of intervals his knock was repeated, and so loudly as to bring Patsy Ann out of the scullery without waiting to dry her hands. Her consternation was considerable at finding the Chief Constable on the doorstep at such an hour—the breakfast things not cleared away; her feet—Patsy was proud of her feet—in her oldest shoes; and her hands and arms dripping with the geranium dye in which she had just immersed an aged pink sports coat.

Her color rose. She put up a hand to her hair, left a gruesome stain on her temple, and said in an agitated voice:

"Oh good morning, Major Anderson—I'm dying."

Hang it all, the girl looked as if she had been killing a pig.

With this in the back of his mind,
 he removed his hat and said, "Good morning."

"I'm afraid I'm an early visitor," he proceeded, "but I've come on a matter of business. Perhaps I might see Miss Leigh."

Patsy indicated a chair, apologized for the breakfast things, and ran upstairs in despair to inform Caroline.

"Major Anderson is downstairs, and my coat's only half done—and just look at me!"

Caroline was dusting her dressing-table. She straightened up with her back to Patsy.

"Major Anderson?"

"Yes—the Chief Constable—on business. What can he want? He asked for you, I must just get some of this stuff off my hands. Do come down."

"All right," said Caroline without moving.

She put on a little rouge and went down.

Major Anderson was looking out of the window. He might have been admiring the dahlias. He turned as she came down the stairs, said, "How do you do?" and pulled a chair away from the breakfast table for her.

"Miss Leigh," he said, "I've called at what I hope is not a very inconvenient hour to make some inquiries about—well, about Jim Randal."

Caroline said, "Yes?" Her voice sounded deep and mournful. It did not shake; that was one comfort.

"Now, Miss Leigh," said Major Anderson—"perhaps you wouldn't mind telling me when you last heard from Jim Randal?"

"It was the beginning of August," said Caroline.

"Can you give me the date?"

"Yes—the fourth."

"Would you mind telling me what he said?"

"Oh no. It was just a few lines. I was staying with Mrs. Ogilvie at Craigellachie. Jim was coming there too. He wrote to say he would take a steamer up the coast."

"Did he say what steamer?"

"No."

"Did he hear again?"

"No, we didn't."

Major Anderson leaned forward.
 "Had you any reason to suppose that he was on the Alice Arden?"

His small, sharp grey eyes fixed Caroline.

"We thought he must have been."

"Why?"

"He didn't come, and he didn't write."

"I see. You say he didn't write.
 You're sure of that? You're sure he hasn't communicated with you since the wreck of the Alice Arden?"

"Quite sure," said Caroline. She wondered whether this was a lie.

"Now, Miss Leigh—I believe you went to the Elton cottage hospital in response to a broadcast message stating that they had a man there who appeared to have lost his memory. It was believed that his name was Jim Randal, or Randal. You went there?"

"Yes."

STROKES OF GENIUS

The CHILDREN of CHARLES I

VAN DYCK was knighted after living in England only three months! Before he was 19, he was a full-fledged member of the Antwerp Guild of Painters, and soon shared with his master, Rubens, the title of court painter in the Netherlands. In 1632, he was commanded by the illated King Charles I of England to come to that country, where he speedily became the favorite of the crown.
 The "Children of Charles I" was done in 1635. It portrays the Prince of Wales, who ascended the English throne as Charles II in the Restoration, the Princess Mary and the infant Prince James. The picture—perhaps the most beautiful piece of child portraiture in the world—was presented by the queen to her sister, Christina of Savoy, and is now in the Royal Gallery in Turin, Italy.

Van Dyck frequently painted only the finishing touches on his portraits, the rough groundwork being done by his pupils. In this manner, he was able to produce so many pictures that his studio has since been referred to as the "Portrait Factory!"

Loughran Explains Concerning Charges

November 2, 1933
To The Voters of Ulster County:
Referring to the paid political advertisement published in the Kingston Daily Freeman on Tuesday, October 31, 1933, relative to certain County Road construction in this County, I desire to make the following explanations:

That the nine pieces of County Roads listed in such advertisement were all commenced in the year 1930 and completed by the Fall of 1931 and are now in use.

That the total mileage of these nine pieces of roads is 26.7 miles, and the average cost was $21,000.00 per mile. There was, in fact, no estimate of the cost of construction, prior to the work, on the road being done. It was customary for the Board of Supervisors to make a lump sum appropriation for County Road construction, the Town being the unit for each appropriation.

By unanimous consent of the Board of Supervisors and with the approval of the New York State Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, work was continued on these nine roads, even though the appropriations, based upon the Town unit was exhausted, the cost of such additional work, under unanimous approval of the Board of Supervisors, Democrats and Republicans alike, and with the approval of the New York State Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, was taken from unused balances of other County Road Funds, so that it was merely a matter of bookkeeping, creating no additional tax levy or burden.

In each instance, as to these nine roads, I considered it was good and proper business to complete the same during the year 1931, rather than to carry over such completion into the following year.

In these proceedings there was no waste of public funds but in fact such

WITH GREATER VALUES TO YOU!

completion meant economy. This action was criticized by the examiners from the State Comptroller's Office, upon a technicality of law, and not by reason of waste or graft. It was believed before such examination, that the practice followed was proper and was good business, but since the making of such report every effort has been made by me to comply strictly with its recommendations.

Respectfully yours,
J. F. LOUGHRAN,
County Superintendent.

Little of This and Local Democracy in Addition to the Other Troubles Is Making the Question of Who's to Be Next Postmaster Harder to Read.

"One sorrow after another is being piled onto the head of Judge Schirick and his Democratic local Democratic machine," observed the barbers this morning as the customer entered the shop and dropped into a vacant chair.

"How about it?" asked the customer.
The question of who will be the next postmaster of Kingston is raising its head, explained the barber.
"And it was not expected to pop up until after election."

"But I understand the term does not expire for another year yet," said the customer.
"That makes no difference to local Democrats," replied the barber with a smile. "And latest reports say that E. Frank Flanagan is slated for the job in case he is defeated for mayor next week."

"But I understood that the job was to go to Judge Schirick or Captain Bill Kraft," interrupted the customer.

"And that is where the rub is," replied the barber. "For Mr. Flana-gan's friends, it is said, claim that he is entitled to the job considering all the time he has been spending on running for mayor."

"There is something to that," agreed the customer.

"On the other hand though," continued the barber, "Schirick is entitled to something for all the time he is spending on the job of being the Democratic boss."

"You don't suppose the question was fixed up when Postmaster General Farley was here attending that testimonial dinner?" asked the customer.

"If it was," replied the barber, "it has been kept rather quiet by the leaders of the party."

Madrid (AP)—Eleven new war vessels, authorized by the 1921 Wash-finished.

Officials at the Ferrol and Cartagena shipyards report the craft will not be ready for another five years and some navy officers fear the ships will be obsolete before they are floats.

The eleven include two cruisers,

In Praise of "Connie" Pinch Hitting as Mayor

Kingston Freeman
Dear Sirs:

The article you had in Wednesday night about Connie Heiselman was O. K. but you didn't tell the whole story. Why not tell that all the while Mayor Carey was sick Connie did a lot of extra work and for almost three months was acting mayor and spent all his time at the city hall. And he did it all for nothing. He never got a dime or a nickel.

As alderman-at-large he gets 700 dollars per year. Sam Mann, running against him on the Democratic ticket was licked last year by 12 votes. But in defeat he won a financial victory. The powers that be gave Sam a good job as assistant city clerk and in the past two years he collected 4,500 dollars in salary.
Not so bad for Sam but not so good for Connie.

At Democratic headquarters Monday night Joe Epstein and the others planned Connie and tried to blame him for not cooperating with the mayor. If Joe would spend his time trying to get himself elected alderman in the 6th ward and not try to run the Democratic party Epstein and the party would both be better off.

The whole common council knows how well Heiselman cooperated with the mayor. He did everything he could do to help him. He played the game on the up and up when the mayor was helpless in the hospital.
The mayor knows it and thanked Connie before the council at the September meeting. The council gave Connie a rising vote of thanks.
Joe Epstein was one of those that rose up and applauded. He knows better. So does everyone at the city hall. So do the men on the Board of Public Works. So does the mayor's family. Everybody knows it but Epstein. I'll say this: that if the Democrats had all cooperated with the mayor like Connie Heiselman did maybe the Democrats wouldn't be in the mess they are today.

When Heiselman took over the job of alderman-at-large he could have appointed all Republicans as chairmen of the committees in the common council. Did he do this and play politics? No, he appointed Derrenbacher, Epstein, McGrane, Doherty and Long, all Democrats, as chairmen of the important committees, so that the Democratic mayor could have the cooperation of the aldermen.

Every alderman will tell you how fair and square Connie has been.
The mayor will tell you. And everybody at the city hall will tell you.
And the people know it. The only real argument he ever had with the mayor was last winter about the way the relief was being run. And from the way people talk I think they realize now that Connie Heiselman was right.

Personally, I think Connie is foolish for running for office. He does a lot of work and after paying for all the turkey dinners, etc., he probably will get nothing out of it but a lot of hard work and headaches. But if he is willing to do it I say the people of this city get a bargain when they get him for 700 dollars a year. So I and a lot of others are going to vote for him regardless of what Joe Epstein and so forth say.

AN INSIDER FOR FAIR PLAY.

The Sloven
By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The child who is careless about his clothes, who tears and crumples and destroys them all as fast as he gets them, is a great trial to parents, and causes the more annoyance than the over-careful child. As a general thing, however, he is more normal than the primpling, fussy variety, whether girl or boy.

Clothes are, after all, a development of civilization and no more natural than eating with forks or knives instead of fingers. The care and treatment of clothes must be taught like table manners, but in such a way that the child does not shift the stress and come to attach an undue value to them.

Let the child suffer the consequences of his own carelessness and see if the consciousness which un-tidiness gives him will not work a cure. Children are often cruel. It is true, but they are also often the best mentors for each other.

In correcting the child about personal slovenliness the most effective terms of reproach are ingenuity and lack of personal pride. For it is not enough to lack clothes sense.

In any event the most careless child will probably be cured automatically when it first becomes conscious of its own powers of attraction.

The small boy who is always grimy and unkempt, with dangling socks, shoes unpainted, and untied, will turn into a dapper over night when he first sees a girl as a girl and not as a nuisance.

And the most slovenly little miss, whose dresses are crumpled and spotted, and whose hair is will all at once speed boys over a cared toilet because some small boy has made sheep's eyes at her.

Hunt For 10-Mile-A-Minute Air Lane

Laurel Spaniard On Stratosphere Trip

Madrid (AP)—Lieut. Col. Emilio Herrera, noted Spanish flier, is planning a trip into the stratosphere in a combination attempt to outclimb Prof. Auguste Piccard and the Soviet stratospherists, and to explore the possibilities for tremendous forward plane speeds at extreme altitudes.

Recognized as an authority on lighter-than-air craft, Herrera believes speeds of 500 miles an hour possible in rarefied atmosphere, and hopes his observations will lend scientific support to his contentions.

Balloon Huge Balloon
He believes he has conceived a means which will enable him to ascend to 75,000 feet.

His conveyance will be a balloon of much greater dimensions than those hitherto used in stratosphere ventures. It will be 100 feet in diameter and hold 25,000 cubic yards of non-inflammable gas.

It will carry an open basket instead of a hermetically sealed globe and the Spaniard will go aloft alone.

Invents Heated Suit
He has, he said, devised an air-tight, electrically-heated suit which will afford him the better freedom in making observations than would a globe with small glass apertures.

Dr. Laurence M. Gould, who was second in command of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, tended furnaces at the University of Michigan to earn his degree in geology.

EMILIO HERRERA

"I am going alone," he said, "so that I may carry all the scientific equipment possible. I do not expect to be more than an hour and a half in reaching 75,000 feet, and from there on up I will make observations on the possibilities of forward flight at more than 500 miles an hour. The bag will be made of rubberized cloth weighing only sixteen ounces to the square yard."

Andre Rombert and Miss Viola Sutton, New York city couple, picked Griffin, Ga., for the scene of their wedding because "it is in the heart of Georgia."

LINDY'S FLIGHTS GIVE U. S. LEAD IN ARCTIC LAKES

Copenhagen (AP)—America has

"the inside track" in plans for establishing a trans-Atlantic airline connecting the United States and Europe by the northern route, because of missionary work by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

This point was brought out by the administration of Greenland following reports in the London press that the British had provisional plans for a weekly service between Liverpool and Montreal.

Americans Get Option
The Danish Colonial authorities feel themselves morally bound to Pan-American Airways, the American organization, which has been given an option by Greenland for bases there.

"The Imperial Airways (the great British organization)," the governor said, "has not even discussed with us the possibilities of using the Greenland link in a trans-Atlantic air route and, having promised the American company represented by Col. Lindbergh to consider granting a concession to it, we cannot permit Imperial Airways making use of Greenland."

British Fail to Act
"Consequently, we cannot help the British before having concluded negotiations with the Americans."

"A regular air route over Greenland cannot be carried through before careful investigations and technical organization. So far, the Americans are the only ones who have systematically investigated conditions."

Flock Named for Florence
The florin, once Europe's most widely circulated coin, was named for the city of Florence, one financial center.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—A significant thing about President Roosevelt's invitation to Russia for a discussion of the problems which have kept the two nations apart in the stipulation that he "personally" would conduct the negotiations.

There can be no doubt about the importance which the President himself attaches to that. When he made public the correspondence between himself and Kallin at a press conference, one of the first questions asked was:

"Mr. President, with whom will Commissar Litvinov talk when he arrives in Washington?"

Without hesitation he replied emphatically:

"Me."

Last, But Not Least
THIS is in line with the policy he has pursued since he entered the White House on March 4. In every major move his administration has made there has been reserved for him personally the final say.

This was true when he issued his general invitation to the debtor nations of the world to send representatives to Washington to discuss the question of war debts. And it is counts, perhaps for the manner in which the British American war debt discussions are now being conducted.

The Versatile Polyp
The hydra, a small fresh-water polyp, is one of Nature's strangest creatures. It is capable not only of swallowing an animal 50 times its own size, but of functioning normally when turned inside out.—Collier's Weekly.

United States' Waterfront
The United States has 5,000 miles of ocean coastline, 15,000 miles of navigable rivers and 2,700 miles of shoreline on navigable lakes. Twenty-eight states are accessible to ocean-going vessels.

The same thing has been true in every step of the framing of the domestic recovery program: in all of NEA, AAA and other parts of the vast recovery machinery it is Franklin D. Roosevelt himself who appears as the final authority.

The domestic political hazards as well as the international commensurate risks involved in the question of recognition of Russia are important. Other Presidents—from Wilson to Roosevelt—because of the pressure of American public opinion have turned their backs on the question of recognition.

And were it not for the fact, perhaps, that this country and the world are suffering from an economic depression, Roosevelt himself might have followed the example of his predecessors.

Accepting The Responsibility
IT is possibly because of these risks, therefore, that the President makes himself personally responsible. Evidently he feels that the question is of such importance that he cannot delegate any part of the task to another.

He has an abounding self-confidence in himself and in his ability to talk the situation over with anyone under any conditions. That is why he stresses the fact, Litvinov will "confer with me personally all questions outstanding between our countries."

NOTICE OF CHANGES IN RATE

SCHEDULE

Amendments in the electric rate schedule effective October 1, 1933, as made by the Board of Public Utilities, New York City, and the Board of Public Utilities, New York County, New York, are as follows:

In the revision of the Residential Rate schedule, the monthly charge of service charge, No. 1, is changed to $1.50 per month, plus 20¢ per kilowatt-hour for each room in excess of four rooms; and the monthly service charge of service charge, No. 2, is changed to $1.50 per month, plus 20¢ per kilowatt-hour for each room in excess of four rooms.

In each of the above Service Classifications, the monthly charge of service charge, No. 1, is changed to $1.50 per month, plus 20¢ per kilowatt-hour for each room in excess of four rooms; and the monthly service charge of service charge, No. 2, is changed to $1.50 per month, plus 20¢ per kilowatt-hour for each room in excess of four rooms.

The revision of the Commercial Lighting Rate, Service Classification No. 3, reduces the monthly demand charge applicable to the portion of the demand between 2 and 5 Kwh. from 50¢ per Kwh. to 35¢ per Kwh. and the maximum gross rates in the three brackets 1, 2 and 3 are reduced to 2.5¢, 10¢ and 12.5¢ per Kwh. respectively.

Assemblyman Conway Gets Better Lights at Albany Ave. Crossing

Secures More Adequate Lighting at Albany Avenue Crossing—Commission Grants His Request.

Through the efforts of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway the West Shore crossing on Albany avenue will shortly be more effectively guarded at night through the installation of more adequate lights at the crossing. This matter was brought to the attention of the Public Service Commission following a recent accident at the crossing which resulted in two deaths.

Mr. Conway interviewed the Public Service Commission and requested that some further protection in the way of signaling devices be installed. At first the commission was inclined to rest upon the statement that the railroad having complied with all the necessary regulations could not be forced to do anything further. However Mr. Conway asked that an investigation be made and this the commission ultimately agreed to do. Following this investigation Assemblyman Conway received the following letter which shows that his efforts were successful:

October 26, 1933.
Mr. J. Edward Conway, 293 Wall street,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Assemblyman:—
In connection with your conversation in this office in August last with Mr. W. G. Himes, Principal Transportation Engineer, regarding the inadequacy of the red lights on the crossing gates at the West Shore crossing north of Kingston, a study has been made of lamps suitable for these gates.

It was found that the lights used were, as you stated, not sufficiently brilliant. A more satisfactory lamp was found and the gates will soon be equipped with lamps having the new lenses. Your interest in bringing this matter to the attention of the commission is appreciated.

Very respectfully,
FRANCIS E. ROBERTS,
Secretary.

At the same time Assemblyman Conway was urging that additional signals be placed at the crossing he also brought to the attention of the commission the fact that the crossing was a much traveled one and should be eliminated.

As assemblyman from this district Mr. Conway has at all times the interest of the people of the county at heart and is constantly working for the benefit of the people whom he represents. His activity in securing better protection at the Albany avenue crossing is but one of many matters in which he has become interested in order to improve local conditions and is entirely outside his usual duties as assemblyman from this district.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS—SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The marriage of Frances Dee and Joel McCrea is unique, aside from its romantic aspects, in that it unites two young players both of whom rose from the extra ranks.

In these days, when the movies draw most of their talent or prospects from the stage, such a romance is rare because so few players are coming from the shadowy army of extras into prominence.

About the time that Joel, just out of school and trying for a place in the movie sun, was receiving his first big role in "The Silver Horde," Frances Dee was making her way to the front after being selected by Maurice Chevalier for his feminine lead in "Innocents of Paris." Their romance started when Joel and Frances both were cast in "The Silver Cord." They played young lovers in the Lionel Barrymore film "One Man's Journey"—and then came the journey to the altar.

Little-Traveled Route

But there are only a few young players who, like Frances and Joel, began as extras and now have contracts. Ann Dvorak and Toby Wing were chorus girls, Adelyn Doyle and Lois Lane were "musicals," and Bruce Cabot and Kent Taylor, both extras, got their opportunities after appearing in screen tests with women players.

There are a few who represent the screen's once favored method of searching talent. Now it goes usually to the stage, or has a contest, and it's when an extra makes the grade—even more so than it was when Frances Dee and Joel McCrea won notice.

Around Filmdom

Warner Baxter fans in West, N. Y., sent him a huge and heavy postcard, with hundreds of signatures, telling him they were awaiting his next latest film. The same group, only most of them, spent $2.38 to post a similar greeting to Baxter and Janet Gaynor on their latest picture.

Low Brown is accepting a new pot— a tame pequin—about the lot. Incidentally, when Ray Henderson arrives soon the old song trio of DeSylva-Brown-Henderson will be reunited—for George White's screen "Scandal."

Aside from "Klieg eyes," acute astigmatism, and sinus trouble, Clara Bow is all right as she rests between pictures—pictures and treatments.

MAYOR

AN INVITATION — TO THE — PEOPLE OF KINGSTON

DURING THE PRESENT POLITICAL CAMPAIGN YOU HAVE HEARD MUCH ABOUT THE BOULEVARD.

BEFORE YOU CAST YOUR VOTE TUESDAY YOU OWE IT TO YOUR CITY AND YOURSELF TO INVESTIGATE THE BOULEVARD FOR YOURSELF.

There is only one way to do that. Drive over the Boulevard and see it with your own eyes.

See the condition in which this important traffic entrance to our city has been left after working on it all summer. Remember that it will be in the same deplorable condition all winter and longer. Imagine for yourself the detrimental effect this has had, and will have, on the business of our merchants.

Notice for yourself the reverse hair-pin curves and the dangerous vertical grades. It is understandable why the U. S. government will not give the city the money to finish the job under the present lay-out.

Get out of your car and look at the retaining wall on the south side of the road, at the intersection of the old road. It was intended to hold the road up. It is loosely built of rocks and boulders. It is already falling down.

After your inspection, decide for yourself if the Boulevard is not the biggest example of gross inefficiency and incompetency on the part of the officials who had the work in charge that you have ever seen. Over $55,000.00 has already been spent and this mile of road will cost $104,000.00 when completed, if ever.

The Republican party is not against work relief as the Democratic party would have you believe. Senator Arthur H. Wicks, a local Republican, is the author and sponsor of the Wicks Bill, which founded work relief in New York State. Senator Wicks also introduced the Bill in the New York State Legislature permitting the authorization of the $60,000,000.00 state bond issue for relief which you will vote on next Tuesday.

The Republican party is not opposed to relief, properly administered. But it is against inefficient, incompetent, wasteful and unfair and partisan handling of relief funds by public officials.

PLEASE ACCEPT THIS INVITATION. RIDE OVER THE BOULEVARD BEFORE YOU VOTE NEXT TUESDAY.

AND REMEMBER THIS:

E. FRANK FLANAGAN, DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR, WAS A DOMINANT MEMBER OF THE WORK RELIEF COMMITTEE AND THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS WHEN THIS JOB WAS DONE.

The Republican Board of Supervisors Fixes Some Appropriations By Guess!

THE RECORDS OF THE REPUBLICAN BOARD OF SUPERVISORS SHOW THE MOST ANTIQUATED, HIT AND MISS AND INEFFICIENT METHODS OF MAKING UP THE ANNUAL COUNTY BUDGET. READ WHAT THESE EXPERT OFFICIAL AUDITORS AND ACCOUNTS FOUND—

"A BUDGET STATEMENT IF PROPERLY PREPARED SHOULD SHOW THE AMOUNT OF CONTEMPLATED EXPENDITURES FOR EVERY PURPOSE OF GOVERNMENT FOR A GIVEN PERIOD, AND THE ANTICIPATED REVENUES TO BALANCE SUCH EXPENDITURES

"ANALYSIS OF THE COUNTY BUDGET FOR 1931 SHOWS IT TO BE AN INCOMPLETE STATEMENT OF THE NECESSARY EXPENDITURES FOR THE ENSUING YEAR, AND THE AVAILABLE REVENUES TO MEET THE SAME.

"THE BASIS OF FIXING THE APPROPRIATIONS IS THE AMOUNT EXPENDED FOR EACH PURPOSE IN THE PRECEDING YEAR AS SHOWN BY THE ACCOUNTS OF THE COUNTY TREASURER. IF SOME PURPOSE ARISES WHICH HAS NOT HERETOFORE BEEN ACCOUNTED FOR, THE APPROPRIATION IS FIXED BY GUESS.

"THE PRACTICE OF PRIOR YEARS SHOWS THAT WHEN ANY APPROPRIATION IS CONSUMED, PAYMENTS ARE CONTINUED BY APPROPRIATING GENERAL FUND MONIES WHICH ARE REPLENISHED BY INCLUDING THE OVERDRAFT IN THE NEXT SUCCEEDING BUDGET.

"THE BUDGET FORM GIVES NO CLASSIFICATION OF EXPENDITURES BY GOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITIES, NEITHER DOES IT DIFFERENTIATE EXPENDITURES SO AS TO DISTINGUISH CAPITAL OUTLAYS, FIXED CHARGES AND CURRENT EXPENSES."

Now, Taxpayers and Voters, Read Just One Year's Record of the Republican Board of Supervisors That Claims to Have Conducted a "PAY-AS-YOU-GO" and A "DEBT-FREE" Policy.

REMEMBER, THESE $892,800 TEMPORARY LOANS WERE LEVIED BETWEEN MARCH 3, AND JULY 28, 1931, PAYABLE IN MARCH AND APRIL, 1932, WITH INTEREST AT 6%.

REMEMBER, THESE LOANS WERE LABELED BY EXPERT AND EXPERIENCED OFFICIAL MUNICIPAL AUDITORS AS ILLEGAL WITH THESE WORDS:—

"IT IS EVIDENT THAT THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS HAD NO POWER TO LEVY TAXES ON THE DATES NAMED."

"THESE ALLEGED LEVIES ARE NOT IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW."

"NO LEGAL BASIS FOR ENSUING THESE CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS TO COVER THESE TEMPORARY LOANS."

"THIS IS AN ATTEMPT TO LEVY TAXES TO REIMBURSE A FUND ILLEGALLY DEPLETED."

Farmers Will Meet In Syracuse Nov. 9

C. C. Diamond of Ulster Park will represent Ulster county at the annual meeting of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, at the Onondago Hotel in Syracuse November 9 and 10, when farmers from more than fifty agricultural counties in the state will meet to formulate the policies of the Farm Bureau. This event is significant in that it represents the mill in which the various county farm bureaus throughout the state grind their grists and turn out the state wide farm bureau program. The program and resolutions approved in this meeting will guide the policies of the state federation during the coming year.

According to reports issued from the office of the Federation, in Ulster, many resolutions have already been submitted for consideration. They include such things as raising prices of farm commodities, further adjustment in the tax system to relieve real estate, a new system of licensing trucks so that an operator of a truck may license his truck for the first of any month at a rate equal to the fractional part of the remaining year; opposition to the practice of developing irrigation projects in the west with public works funds favoring farm-to-market roads as one of the best and most useful methods of using work relief funds, favoring a high tax on intoxicating liquors; favoring the plugging of all holes which permit escape from taxation on personal and corporate income; opposition to the federal check and federal gasoline tax; lower interest on farm debts; organization of production credit associations; doubling the tariff on caseln; placing a tariff on cars and oils used in making alcohol, and many more items of interest to farmers.

In addition to Mr. Diamond, George H. Sargent, W. T. Jenkins of Chateaufort and L. B. Davis of Olive Branch will attend the Farm Bureau Federation meeting.

Two Indians Compete For "Last Man Club"

Each is Last Survivor of His Tribe and Last on Earth Who Can Speak Language—Smithsonian Institution Making Thorough Study.

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—There are two candidates for a new "Last Man's Club", two aged California Indians, each the last survivor of his tribe and the last on earth who can speak the language of a vanished people.

The Indians are real-life prototypes of the "Last of the Mohicans" made famous by James Fenimore Cooper. One, a woman of nearly 99, is known as "the last of the Coast Indians". The other, a man nearly 100 years old, is "the last of the Tolus".

They have been "discovered" in California by John P. Harrington, Indian expert, the Smithsonian Institution announced today. In a real race against death, Harrington is gathering from these two old people all he can of the language and lore of their lost tribes.

When they die, the two languages which they alone on earth can now speak will become dead languages. Harrington is hastily recording on paper and phonograph records as many as possible of their almost-extinct words and phrases. Their songs, likewise relics of a dead past, also are being recorded.

By preserving the lore of these vanishing Americans, the Smithsonian Institution hopes to weave more complete and accurate picture of American Indian life in the days before the white man.

Many California tribes already have disappeared, literally without trace. No record of their language or customs remains. Others are on the road to extinction, their last survivors being only a few aged Indians often with badly shattered memories.

Before the coming of the white man, California probably had the largest number of separate Indian tribes and languages to be found in any region of similar size in the world, says Matthew W. Stirling, chief of the Smithsonian's Bureau of American Ethnology.

November Meeting Of Wilwyck Chapter

The November meeting of Wilwyck Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the Chapter House Thursday afternoon with the Regent, Mrs. Louise H. Hovenberg, presiding. Reports were read from the various committees.

Resolutions upon the death of Mrs. John Forester, prepared by Mrs. J. S. Williams, were read by Mrs. Sara Hadenbrook, after which the Regent spoke of Mrs. Forester, one of the charter members of the chapter, and told feelings of all that Mrs. Forester had done for the perpetuation of the best interests of the chapter. A brief period of silence in memory of Mrs. Forester followed.

During an interesting discussion came to light that Wilwyck Chapter was the second oldest in the state and the twenty-sixth in the nation.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Horace C. Ingals, chairman of the Ellis Island Committee. It featured the reading of a poem, "Lighthouse" by Joachim Miller, by Mrs. Maxwell Taylor, and also the reading of a paper, "Immigration before and after Ellis Island," written by Mrs. T. E. Dimick of Ohio, by Mrs. Dumm.

Mrs. Ingals gave an interesting talk on the immigrant work at Ellis Island and showed many excellent pictures, made by the immigrants while waiting at the island. Mrs. Ingals stated that at the December meeting there would be a "Fondle Party," to which the chapter members were asked to send contributions of yarn, wool, shirring in card, card pieces, denim, knaki, and calico to be made up into the "Fondles."

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. William H. Van Etten and Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wagonen. Mrs. Philip Elting presided at the prettily decorated tea table.

Wire You Cannot See

Platinum wire used in a 1100 ampere fuse designed to protect delicate electrical equipment is thirty times finer than the average human hair; 13,800 could be laid side by side on a 3-inch space. A pound of platinum will yield 25,100,000 feet of this wire—a piece 4,750 miles longer than the earth's radius.

Cabbage Recipes

This is a delicious as well as healthful food. Try this way of preparing it:

FIVE MINUTE CABBAGE (6 servings)

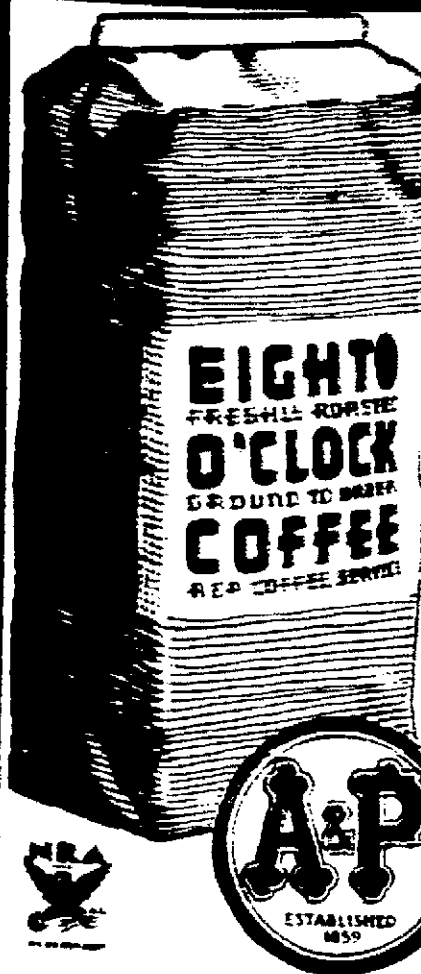

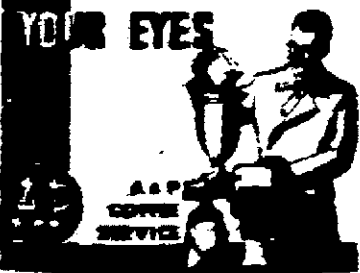

2 cups milk
1½ quarts shredded cabbage
1 cup cream or rich milk
3 T. melted butter
Salt
Pepper
3 T. flour

Heat the milk and cook the cabbage in it for two minutes. Add the cup of cream or rich milk, the blended flour and fat, and the seasonings, cook rapidly for three or four minutes, and stir constantly. The cabbage retains its crispness and is delicate in flavor and color.

This is one of a series of cabbage recipes prepared for this paper by the Consumers Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Watch for others.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—The stock market was still under the spell of uncertainty today. Price changes were narrow and mixed. Scattered buying appeared in a few groups, while metals encountered profit taking.

Grains again advanced a cent or so, in sympathy with foreign markets and in expectation of Washington developments, but cotton was narrowly checked. The dollar failed to decline to any extent to foreign exchange dealers, despite a substantial boost in the R.M. gold price.

Oils were firm, with Socony Vacuum up nearly a point in response to dividend resumption. A little buying appeared in the sugars, as well, with American Sugar Refining advancing about a point, as the raw sugar futures market stiffened. Rails were also firm for a time. Such issues as American Telephone and Tel. S. Steel were about unchanged. In the non-ferrous metals, U. S. Smelting and Refining slid off about 3 points, and others sagged fractions to a point.

Further agitation for sound money and a return to the gold standard, in the form of a resolution by the New York State Chamber of Commerce, attracted much attention in financial quarters.

Business and industrial news was somewhat unfavorable, but announcement of substantial loans from the government for railway equipment purchases, and the approach of the holiday shopping season, brought hopes of better reports in coming weeks. The weekly statistics on the movement of revenue freight were a little discouraging, showing a drop of $13,495 cars from the previous week, a somewhat larger than seasonal recession. The total of 635,474 cars, however, was 19,396 above the like week of last year.

Dun & Bradstreet found business again hesitant this week, but said actual recessions were being held to narrow limits. The department of commerce in its monthly survey said industrial production declined during October, but at a slower rate, nevertheless, it noted that the normal tendency in October is upward.

Hull Hints Close Of Anglo-U. S. Talks

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP).—Secretary Hull told newsmen today he may soon be able to say whether the British debt conversations have narrowed to the question of the December 15 payment instead of a general final settlement.

Hull made this statement at his press conference after being closeted over an hour with Dean Acheson, undersecretary of the Treasury.

"Are the conversations nearing an end?" Hull was asked.

The secretary replied he could not answer that question until later and that the conversations were still going on.

Then Hull was asked if the conversations had reached the point of dealing with the December 15 payment rather than with a final settlement of the general debt problem.

He replied that he thought he would be able to give an answer to this question later on, indicating it might come today.

Hull said his conference with Acheson indicated no change in the original plan of having the debt conversations conducted by the Treasury.

Gold Plan Active As Nation's Agents Seek Metal Abroad

The Metal Also Takes 21-cent Increase Over Yesterday's Bid New York—London's Figure $22.25. Highest in Nine Days of U. S. Bidding.

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP).—The Roosevelt plan for forcing prices upward by increasing the value of gold was in full operation today with the government's agents quietly at work on the European bullion markets and the domestic price of the metal again reaching a new high.

For Reconstruction Corporation purchases of the metal when duly mined in the United States a price of $22.57 was announced, an increase of 21 cents since yesterday and 31 cents higher than the day's London price, converted into dollars at the opening exchange rate of $1.34 1/2.

The London figure, $22.25, was the highest since the administration's gold buying began nine days ago.

In actual British currency, it was slightly under yesterday when a price of 123 shillings, 3 pence was reached. Today it was one penny under that.

The weakness of the dollar, falling two cents and a half overnight, was responsible for the discrepancy between the increase in the dollar quotation as contrasted with the decline in the British currency quotation.

Actual purchases abroad, which foreign dispatches said began yesterday, were wrapped in secrecy lest speculators here or in Europe seek to enrich themselves by the government's operations and possibly hinder them.

All power in making the purchases was delegated to the Federal Reserve Bank at New York and officials here said the only announcements of what is being done would be intermittent summaries covering the activities of a period of time.

Woman Was Acting In Strange Manner

Marion Farr, who gave her age as 31 and her residence as Williams-town, Mass., was picked up by Trooper Paul General Thursday near Ulster Park on a disorderly conduct charge. Complaint was made that she was acting in a strange manner and attempting to stop passing cars. She was brought to the county jail and there created such a disturbance that she was later removed by the W. N. Conner ambulance to the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium. A mental condition was responsible for her actions. Her parents were notified and were on their way to Kingston. It was believed that over-study had caused her condition.

Prisoners Give Good Minutrels at Walk

At the Medium Security Prison at Walkkill Thursday night, 60 inmates gave one of the finest productions of a clean minstrel show that has been seen in this county. These men proved to be real actors in the various sketches and Harry Malachuk, director of music, and the staff at the institution are properly proud of them.

This institution is not like an old fashioned prison. It has no walls around it and few bars. One does not have to go into the prison proper to see the show but some of the buildings can be seen if one cares to do so. Every courtesy is extended to the patrons.

Last night there was a full house and the tickets have sold so well tonight that a Saturday night show will be necessary to accommodate the crowds. The proceeds will be used to purchase recreational equipment which the state does not furnish. The roads are excellent all the way through New Paltz, Modern Ireland Corners to the prison the side of Walkkill.

Mickey Walker Tries For Rosenbloom's Title Tonight at the Garden

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—If the trend of the times alone could bring about a new light heavyweight champion, first man in the modern history of the ring to hold three titles.

Mickey goes to the wars again, possibly for his last title chance, against Maxie Rosenbloom, 175-pounder, in a fifteen round engagement in Madison Square Garden. He has the fate of Lou Brouillard, Tony Canzoneri, Jackie Fields, Young Corbett III, Ben Jeby, and lastly Jack Sharkey, ex-champions all within the year, to spur him on.

But unfortunately for Mickey, over a decade of slambang effort piled on top of his 32 years form an invisible load the experts agree is too much for even so stout a hearted warrior to carry with success against Rosenbloom, the Harlequin of the ring.

Maxie the slapper is a 2 to 1 favorite to win as he always has been when his title was in jeopardy.

As history is ever, Rosenbloom, only slightly recovered from the laceration that he is a potential idol of the motion picture world, has trained as usual for his championship effort by shadow boxing with his dinner suit, wrestling with a dress tie, and walking to and from the nearest taxicab.

His attitude of carelessness no longer is deceiving, however. Weekly overnight battles about the countryside, some of which he wins, while others he loses when the mood is upon him, keep him in fine condition. When he falls hilariously under the table at the climax of some of his carabell parties, he is merely proving his contention that he was born to read hearts and hear emotions of the screen. He neither smokes nor drinks.

Gridling for a final effort to get back to the top line picture, Walker has gone through a month of strenuous training and appears as fit as it is possible for him to be at this stage of his career. Eleven years ago he won the welterweight championship from Jack Britton.

He held it for four years before Pete Latzo beat him at the weight in Scranton in 1928, and in the meantime he beat Mike McGuire, light heavyweight champion, in an overweight match, and lost to Harry Greb in a savage middleweight title duel. He came back to beat Tiger Flowers for the 160-pound championship in Chicago in 1928 after Joe Dundee had knocked him out and apparently ended his career.

But he came back again, knocking out Mike McGuire, beating Paul Berlinbach, losing to Tommy Loughran and finally he quit his middleweight title to battle heavyweights. His winning streak ended when Max Schmeling, the former heavyweight champion, blasted him out in eight rounds over a year ago. In the meantime this amazing little fellow had beaten Johnny Risko twice, Paulino Uzcudun, knocked out Jimmy Maloney and K. O. Christner, and held Jack Sharkey to a draw.

Mickey has faded fast of late. Lou Brouillard gave him a fearful beating in Boston not long ago. But he's fighting now for the rent money, just as Rosenbloom seeks the cash to pay for last month's tabs at the night clubs.

All the veterans will be among the slim crowd, hoping the gallant Irishman makes it.

Blood Will Tell

Selection Of Winners In Saturday's Grid Contests

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—Still alive but shuddering over the pitfalls that lie just ahead, the football prognosticator shuffles the names around in a hat, mutters an incantation or two and emerges with the following selections for this week-end:

Fordham-St. Mary's—This, the biggest intercollegiate game on the program, brings together undefeated Fordham and a Gael outfit already twice beaten. Strictly playing a hunch, this guesser likes those St. Mary's 200-pounders.

Colgate-Tulane—This Colgate team is not, by several leagues, as good as last year's but its tricky offense may be more than the Green wave can handle, especially now that Tulane has lost the Tessler Brothers. Illinois-Michigan—Zuppke's Illinois are rested and ready but we doubt their ability to stop the undefeated Wolverines.

Notre Dame-Navy—Playing the law of averages for more, perhaps, than its worth, we don't see any Notre Dame outfit losing three games in a row.

Brown-Princeton—Their close call against Washington & Lee should have bounced some of the over-confidence out of the Tigers' skulls and, if so, here's a vote for 'em.

Carnegie-Purdue—Here's where Carnegie Tech and this particular guesser come to the parting of the ways.

Minnesota-Northwestern—If Minnesota is not at least the second best team in the Big Ten, then this game should prove it.

Cornell-Columbia—Columbia hasn't won a game upstate since 1908, inspiring a mighty shaky ball for Cornell.

Dartmouth-Yale—This is another of the same kind only Dartmouth has never beaten Yale. Unless it's a tie, a ballot for the EH.

Florida-Georgia—There will be plenty of red faces if Florida should upset the unbeaten Bulldogs of the South.

Army-Coe—Sympathy is extended to the visitors from Iowa who travel to West Point with an unbeaten record.

U. C. L. A.-California—On the basis of their fine showing against Southern California, a vote for California.

Oregon-Utah—Utah's all but unbeatable in the Rocky Mountain Conference but the Indians seem over-matched here.

George Washington-Tennessee—The Colonials already have beaten one ranking southern team, Auburn, and may add another victim.

Alabama-Kentucky—Kentucky has lost two in a row and this looks like No. 3.

Ohio State-Indiana—There's no alternative but to ride with Ohio State.

Nebraska-Missouri—Another Cornhusker triumph indicated.

Southern Methodist-Texas—Texas should win its second Southern Conference victory.

Pitt-Centre—The Colonels come to Pittsburgh with a prayer for a respectable score.

Centenary-Tex. A. and M.—Centenary's gentlemen have played three scoreless ties in a row. If this isn't another one, we like their chances to win.

Texas Christian-Baylor—Baylor will have to wait a while longer for its first Southern Conference victory.

Detroit-Holy Cross—The Titans are tough but it looks as though Holy Cross is tougher.

Iowa-Iowa State—The Hawkeyes haven't played Iowa State for 12 years and expect to continue where they left off with a 14-10 triumph in 1920.

Chicago-Wisconsin—We'd just as soon no one had brought this up but we'll take a flier on Chicago.

Penn-Lafayette—Lafayette surprised by holding Colgate to a scoreless tie, but we still think Penn's due to get going soon.

Washington & Lee-Virginia Poly—The Generals may start their southern campaign with a victory.

Louisiana State-South Carolina—Those game cocks keep right on winning but those Louisiana Tigers look good, especially if Biff Jones can get an attack clicking.

Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech—Tech rates an edge with a superior offense.

North Carolina-North Carolina State—One of those traditional affairs where form goes by the boards but we incline in the general direction of North Carolina.

Rice-Santa Clara—Rice seems to be taking a long trip for a beating.

West Virginia-Marquette—Is this the spot where West Virginia will earn its first triumph of the season?

Bucknell-Western Maryland—Bucknell, despite the revival of Western Maryland power.

Temple-Drake—Temple should halt its losing streak here.

Virginia-Maryland—Virginia looks the better.

Syracuse-Penn State—The orange of Syracuse should fly high.

Duquesne-Washington & Jefferson—Duquesne logically favored but a tie would create no great surprise.

Boston College-Georgetown—Georgetown hasn't shown anything yet to cope with Boston College's strength.

Oklahoma-Kansas—Better attack may win the soomers.

Michigan State-Kansas State—Kansas State seems to have the second best team in the Big Six but it's only a rank guess to pick them over Michigan State.

Harvard-Lehigh—After two disappointments in a row, the Crimson should return to the winning column.

Word Blindness—The strange inability of a child to learn to read and understand written and printed words, although normal in auditory memory and all other mental faculties, is caused by a congenital brain lesion and not by defective vision.

Colonial Bowling Alley Has Basketball Team

The Kingston Colonial Alley Five, booked by Johnny Marelo, popular Kingston lightweight boxer, is a new team in the field of basketball competition for the coming season and expects to cop the semi-pro title of Ulster county.

Marelo has announced the opening of his club's season as November 22 at Bigelow Hall, Maiden, where opposition will be furnished by the Sanguinetti Bigelows, a team that last winter made a name for itself against some of the best quintets hereabouts and outstanding traveling clubs.

The following players have signed to play with the Colonials: "Bing" Van Etten and Dan Joyce, forwards;

Kingston High Opens DUSO Season Against Middletown

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Fair Grounds, Kingston High School tackles a strong Middletown eleven in the first DUSO Football League tilt of the season for both teams. From all predictions this will be the crucial game of the DUSO circuit, as Kingston and Middletown are regarded as the strongest teams in the loop by the football experts of the Hudson Valley, and it is expected that an extraordinarily large assemblage of fans will be on hand tomorrow to see Captain Debrosky lead the Kingston eleven against the invading forces of Middletown headed by Captain Mauro.

It has been conceded that Kingston has an equally good chance to win if it plays the brand of football it demonstrated against Monticello and Peekskill, as the Kinsmen have something to throw back at everything the Hughabees may offer to the local gridder. To be sure the Middies have a great backfield running ace who is a certain slippery gentleman by the name of Nania, but Kingston also has a great backfield star in Ed Burgerin, who has scored five of 19 touchdowns made by Kingston this year. Middletown also has a brilliant array of reverses, spinners, etc., all of which are augmented by Kingston's great passing attack Cullem to Burgerin, Cullem to Debrosky or Cullem to Every. In fact the teams are on such equal basis that the winner probably will not be known until the final whistle.

So far this season Kingston has played four games, winning three and losing one. Middletown has played five games, winning two, losing two and tying one. Kingston lost to Mont Pleasant 6-0. Later this school was held to a scoreless tie by the Middle eleven. However, in the Middle game Stanton, Mont Pleasant's backfield ace, was warming the bench because of a leg injury. In the Kingston-Mont Pleasant game Stanton was responsible for the last touchdown of the game and practically all of the Dorpians' running powers.

Coach Kias has not announced a starting lineup, but it is presumed that it will be the same as the starting lineup last Saturday, with possibly three or four exceptions. The officials for the game are as follows: Referee, H. E. McCormick; umpire, C. H. Glidden; and head linesman, Walter E. Force.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Slip Madigan may have had his fingers crossed and his tongue in his cheek, but he spent most of yesterday insisting that his St. Mary's team should be the underdog in Saturday's game against Fordham. In fact, Slip said as he indicated such players as Ed Gilbert and John Yezerski, who pack about 240 pounds apiece, he was afraid to trust such little fellows on the same field with those rough Fordham players.

East Lansing, Mich.—The signs point to a real football battle when Michigan State meets Kansas State here Saturday even though each team has been beaten once this season. The defeats came from two of the nation's gridiron leaders, Michigan beating Michigan State and Nebraska stopping Kansas State.

West Point, N. Y.—Army's coaches are taking no chances on having bad weather and fumbles help the undefeated Coe team in its efforts to upset the Cadets. Figuring on bad weather tomorrow, yesterday's drill and dipped the ball into them every few minutes to give the players practice at handling a slippery sphere.

Birmingham, Ala.—There is a strong possibility that the Alabama-Kentucky game here might develop into a punting duel between Millard Howell and Ralph Kercheval and if it does Alabama's supporters are hoping Tom Hupke, star "Bama" guard, will come through again as he did in 1931. He blocked one of Kercheval's punts then as a big contribution to Alabama's 9-7 victory.

Philadelphia—Harvey Harman, Penn coach, doesn't come right out and say he expects his team to beat Lafayette but he has let fall some strong hints. After indicating he thought the team that got the jump would win by saying it would be decided in the first ten minutes, Harman added "the morale of the team is fine," which sounds very much as if he didn't expect Lafayette to get the jump.

Detroit—Dick Lutz, Detroit half-back who hasn't done any kicking competition since his high school days, will be called upon to punt occasionally against Holy Cross just to keep up the deception. Coach Gus Dorais thinks Lutz's speed and dodging ability will make him dangerous in plays from a punt formation but that won't do much good if the opposition knows he isn't going to punt.

New York—John Law, former Notre Dame star and Manhattan coach, is one of the busiest men in the football business around New York. Last week he scouted New York University for Georgia, went down to make his report and stayed to scout the Violets again for Fordham, then came back by airplane to see the Sing Sing prison team, which he coaches, play its Sunday game.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Baseball men may be trying for while the football season is in full blast, but meanwhile there is plenty of front-office activity, the results of which may hurt losses in the form of some seasonal trades or shake-ups before the first of the year.

Clubs like the Braves, Red Sox, Yankees, Athletics, White Sox, Cubs and Cardinals, all with money or player material or both available for bartering purposes, already have begun to sound out the market. Cleveland, too, has signified its intention to seize early opportunities for action by trading Chalmers (Bill) Cissell to the Red Sox for Southpaw Lloyd Brown.

"Brown should be the southpaw we have needed for a long time," remarks Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians, "but we still are in search of some punch." So are most of the other clubs, which accounts for the conviction that the Cardinals, Braves, Cubs and Dodgers will bid high for the services of Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Phillies. If there is any intimation he is on the block. A few years ago Klein could have been sold for $200,000 cash. Half that much probably would be "tops" in these times.

Giants Seek French.

The Giants hope the report is true that they have a chance to swing a deal with Pittsburgh for Larry French, crack southpaw of the Pirates. So far they cannot confirm it. French would be like a fortune in the bank for a club such as New York, already equipped with the best pitching staff in either league, but it is difficult to imagine a first division club parting with its No. 1 hurling asset.

The suggestion is that Freddy Fitzsimmons and cash or additional players would be shipped to Pittsburgh for French.

More definite is the probability that George Earnshaw, one-time right-handed ace of the A's, will wind up with the St. Louis Browns under Robber Hornsby's management.

It seems the Red Sox have not been so keen about taking title to the Swarthmore alumnus. Maybe Eddie Collins isn't sure George will behave any better in Boston than he appeared to do in Philadelphia.

Farm Products.

The Yankees, whether or not they let Babe Ruth go to Boston to manage the Red Sox, apparently will depend on their farm products to strengthen the club for 1934. They expect Charley Deyers to bolster the staff of starting pitchers and Red Rolfe, the former Dartmouth star, developed as a shortstop with Newark, to strengthen the left side of the infield.

At the same time the former world champions will not be reluctant to deal with one of their major league rivals if they can get what they want in pitching or another slugging outfielder, like Earl Averill of Cleveland.

Army Faces Unbeaten Eleven in Coe College

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 3.—When the Coe College football team of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, invades West Point on Saturday, November 4, to play the Army, both elevens will enter the game with an unblemished record this season.

In his 20 years as head coach, Moray Eby has never turned out a better Midwest Conference team than his 1933 eleven. Among the 13 letter men, who returned this fall, Coe has an all-Conference back in Fred Hild and a pair of husky, 200-pound tackles in Charles Claypool and Henry Green.

With several days' rest after the hard fought games with Illinois and Yale on the last two consecutive Saturdays, the Army football squad summed hard scrimmaging in preparation for Coe and Harvard the following week. Having failed to function smoothly against Yale, the reserve eleven is receiving much attention where competition for berths is keen.

The lineup is as follows:

Pos. Army	Coe
L.E. Kopsak	Etha
L.T. Hutchison	Green
L.G. Gooch	Swartzenruber
C. Bucknam	Flood
R.G. Jablonaky	Claypool
R.T. Beall	Claypool
R.E. Burlingame	Glatterbaugh
Q.B. Johnson	Good
L.H. Buckler	Hild
R.H. Sebastian	Carthens
F.B. Stancock	Slavik

Officials—R. E. Kinney, Trinity; Umpire—J. C. Hennessey, Brown; Head Linesman—L. A. Young, Pennsylvania; Field Judge—F. R. Wallace, Washington College.

The Roskins Oppose Spinnys Tonight In Inaugural of Season

The Spinnys basketball team opens its season at Pythian Hall, Port Jervis, tonight at 8:45 o'clock. Opponents of the club from across the creek will be the Roskins of Middletown, a group of players that last year played some of the best in Orange county and all of the leading traveling teams.

Some of the high caliber clubs that bowed to the Roskins were the Detroit Clowns, Hudson River State Hospital, House of David, Mountain Dale Steamrollers. These quintets found it impossible to withstand the attack of Eddie Kane, Harry Travers, Wally Grashem, Randy Grashem, "Hot Shot" Lybolt, Jay Crispell and Ken Roskin, all stars at playing the positions they take care of.

This same array of cage talent will be at Port Jervis to mix it with Dan Joyce, "Bing" Van Etten and "Bun" Chilson, forwards; Hank Krum, center; Bob Cullem, Al and Jack Short, guards.

It is expected that the game will draw one of the largest gatherings of fans ever seen in Pythian Hall.

Previous to the feature, there will be a contest between the Port Jervis Aces and the Poughkeepsie Majestics. This is scheduled to start at 7:45. After the games dancing will be in order. Music will be by Jack Cashin's Nighthawks.

Kantrowitz Junior Basketball Meeting

A meeting of the Kantrowitz Junior City Basketball League will be held at the Kantrowitz store, North Front street, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Director James Fraleigh wishes all captains and managers of teams in the league to be present.

The league is open to boys up to and including 17 years of age. Already many have signed to play with the quintets registered for competition.

The latest team to sign was the Marelo Juniors, entered by Johnny Marelo, local boxer.

Bi-Lateral Pan-American Trade Pacts Program For Montevideo Conference

By GIDEON SEYMOUR

Hosts For Entire Hemisphere

When delegates from the American republics meet in Montevideo, in December, they will assemble in the Uruguayan legislative palace (center) and be greeted by Alberto Mane (left), foreign secretary of the republic and temporary chairman of the gathering. Enrique Buero (right) is secretary-general of the conference.

week-end motor trip to Uruguay shore resorts, horse races, a night football game in the national stadium and a golf tournament are planned as diversions.

Meet In Ornate Hall

The general sessions of the congress will be held in the chamber of Uruguay's $2,000,000 legislative palace. It was completed in 1928; all of the stone and marble, constituting 85 per cent of the structure, came from Uruguayan quarries, and were worked into friezes and columns by artisans brought from Italy.

The chamber seats 150. Principal committee sessions will be held in the senate. The delegations will be quartered in Uruguay's two great municipal hotels on the River Plata shore—the Parque and the Carrasco—and December will find summer gaiety at its height at both resorts with crowds of foreign visitors on the beaches and in the casinos.

Fish Macaroni is Finnish Idea. Helsinki, (P).—Production of macaroni from fresh fish is the suggestion for a new industry here. The factory, it is claimed, would abolish existing waste and furnish a cheap and nutritious food.

Danger
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Of course," growled Jelly Bear, "there are apple trees and nut trees in Puddle Muddle, but Willy Nilly will never get in his supplies for the winter if we are around there—and it may be that later on we'll need some of his food too."

"But Grandpa Grouchy Galump has a beechnut tree, a chestnut tree, and an oak tree, with fine acorns, and two apple trees on his place."

"We can have a marvelous feast. We'll wait until the sun goes down and while I'm eating you can stay on guard. While you're eating I'll stay on guard. It will be dangerous, because those Galumps are always on the lookout for trouble."

As soon as the sun went down and it became dusk the Bears started their feast. The nuts were so good, the apples juicy and delicious.

Once Jelly Bear fell from the apple tree and lights appeared in the Galumps' little pink house. "They heard me fall," whispered Jelly Bear.

"Hush," said Honey Bear. "If we keep very quiet, they'll think they just heard a creaking branch."

After a short time the lights were turned out in the Galumps' house and all was still. The Bears continued their feast and it was almost dawn before they stopped eating.

"Just a short nap," said Jelly Bear, "and we'll be away before the daylight comes."

They curled up for a few winks of sleep but after their feast they were soon sleeping heavily and soundly. It was thus that Grandpa Galump saw them.

"I'll get my gun!" he exclaimed when he saw what had happened.

Tomorrow—"Grandpa Galump's Gun"

Insect That Talks Trees

In the forests of Brazil, South America, there are beetles which bring great trees to the ground. The horrid little creatures dig a sort of trench round the trunk, making it deeper and deeper, and at last the giant tree comes crashing down. A great deal of valuable timber is spoiled in this way every year.

Inhalator Saves Many Lives

The most valuable single piece of equipment carried by big city rescue squads is probably the inhalator around which much of the rescue work revolves. The inhalator is a machine for administering oxygen in any desired amount.

Heiselman Qualified By R. R. Experience

Kingston, N. Y.
November 2, 1933

Your article on Mr. Heiselman shows he was at one time a railroad man and I think that helped fit him for his present position, and he has shown his experience by his knowledge of public affairs, by verifying and obeying signals and not jumping up in the air and doing things at random.

You can judge his experience as follows: Transportation is a direct dealing with the public. Every move a railroad makes is under the jurisdiction of the various government, state, and interstate commissions, the counties, cities and township rights have to be considered. The big producers have their traffic managers fighting for special rates. The shipper and receiver are always there about damages and service. After you face this bunch you turn around to perform a service, then comes the labor board, the agreements with their men, their seniority rights, etc. Then the owners greed for dividends on the stock, and to overstep the monthly appropriations is a serious offense. So you see he has learned early in life that a false move anywhere means the loss of somebody's life, property or money, and his acts should be sponsored and not censured.

Yours truly,
W. H. MARNETT.

Darrow Explains Call for Assistance

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Commissioner Heiselman's denial that he called upon me to assist at the time of the break in the water main on Manor avenue the last Sunday in October, 1932 is not well founded.

The facts are I was walking out Albany avenue on the afternoon in question when a car driven by Daniel Noble, an employee of the Water Department, stopped and Mr. Noble informed me that there was a break in the water main on Manor avenue; that the commissioners were at Commissioner Heiselman's home on Manor avenue, and wanted me to come there. I got in the car and was driven down Manor avenue where Commissioners Heiselman and Reben were waiting on the street. All three of us talked about the break and the danger to adjacent property, and I immediately proceeded to render all assistance possible on my part: in a short time we had the situation under control.

In the progress of the work I was in need of a car and requested the use of one belonging to the water department which was at the garage near the city hall. Commissioner Heiselman urged me to use his car, and I did use it.

Keller Tells Bear Story, Brings Proof

Watson Hollow Section Yields 150 Pounds Bear to Peter Keller on Thursday—Animal Weighs 150 Pounds.

Peter Keller, 31 Brook street, will be eating bear steak for the next few days, he will soon have on the floor of his home a nice bear rug, and he has a story to tell.

Mr. Keller, together with two companions, on Thursday took to the woods and trails of the upper Watson Hollow section of the Catskills, and with true hunter's luck he sighted a 150 pound bear.

A single shot was fired from Mr. Keller's gun, and the bear began to charge directly at him. Several more shots were fired and the bear dropped in its tracks. It was later found that Mr. Keller's first shot would have killed the bear, it having struck the animal in a vital spot. Hunters in that vicinity for years have been trying to get a bear, and it is with pride that Mr. Keller relates that he drove up from Kingston, into the woods known by the native hunters from that section, and took out a bear.

Mammoth Tusks Valuable
Because of their finer texture and distinctive "old ivory" color, the well preserved tusks of the ancient hairy mammoth are more valuable than elephant ivory.

CENTURY OF GROWTH

San Francisco Seen From the Air.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—UNITED STATES.

Every one with the wildest imagination finds it difficult, while standing down San Francisco's Market street, or Chicago's Michigan boulevard, to visualize the former city as a sleepy Mexican village and the latter as a tiny frontier town around a stockade-encircled fort a century ago.

Then the Mississippi was "way out West." It was as late as 1792 that separate statehood made the momentous first step west of the Alleghenies, as Kentucky's lines ran out in their own right (the area had been a part of Virginia), the first state to reach the once remote river.

With the beginning of the Nineteenth century, however, the Union seriously took up the real estate business in a large way.

Ohio's outlines had barely taken map form in 1803 when a huge territory was pegged out for future states, the Louisiana Purchase, which more than doubled the area of the original Union.

This taking over of 900,130 square miles by the stroke of a pen was probably the greatest real estate transaction in all history. For this potential empire the United States paid France in all—principal, interest, and debts assumed—$23,213,667.73. It works out at a little less than 4 cents an acre!

The purchase was a happy accident—a bit of high-handed patriotism that lawyers have said "strained the Constitution."

Robert R. Livingston was sent in 1801 by the United States as minister to France to attempt to buy the "Island of New Orleans," on both sides of the Mississippi, and so to gain control of the mouth of the river. He was authorized to offer $2,000,000 and, if necessary, to go as high as $10,000,000 for the patch of land.

Negotiations dragged on for two years, when suddenly war was declared on France by Great Britain. More to embarrass Great Britain than to accommodate the United States, Napoleon decided to sell the entire Louisiana territory. The historic decision was reached while the first consul was in his bath.

Napoleon Decides to Sell.
James Monroe had joined Livingston as a special commissioner, and to them was made the proposal to sell. The French negotiators asked $15,000,000—an amount once and a half as great as the highest authorized figure.

The two Americans were aghast. Cables and steamships did not exist. To get word to America and an answer back would require many weeks. Napoleon was in a hurry. So the two envoys figuratively threw their instructions out the window and signed the agreement.

Nobody knew enough about the new domain west of the Mississippi to draw an intelligible map of it. They knew only that there were prairies and "deserts"; that beyond were mountains of some sort; and that somewhere farther on, maybe hundreds, maybe thousands of leagues away, lay the half mythical South sea.

Lewis and Clark, and soon after them Capt. Zebulon Pike, struck into the new country to see what it was like, and as a result of their explorations Americans began to learn a few things about their vast West.

When Powell led his party of adventurers by boat down the Colorado river, in 1869, they were the first to navigate the stream through its long canyons, although the early Spanish explorers had seen the Grand canyon from above 300 years before.

to Texas. In all, the forties added to the United States map more than 1,200,000 square miles of territory—an area larger than 20 Floridas.

Taking in Texas.
The Texas addition was unique. Texas had existed for nearly ten years as an independent republic, with diplomatic representatives in Washington and at European courts and with foreign ministers in its own capital. A separate nation entered the Union, the only case of the sort in United States history. More than 388,000 square miles of territory were added by the Texas accession.

There was rejoicing when the Oregon matter was settled, even though the "Fifty-four or fight" slogan was not lived up to. Here was a shining mile-post in the history of the United States. In 50 years from the Declaration of Independence the new nation had pushed across nearly 3,000 miles of virgin territory, had brought almost half of it into statehood, and had marked the other half for future development.

Balboa's hazy sea had become the incontrovertible Pacific, and in that mighty ocean the United States had now taken the first step to establish its vital interest.

After the California country (including the present Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, and part of Colorado) became United States territory, in 1848, the developments that mean map changes came to the Far West with dizzy speed. One of the world's greatest gold rushes started in '49. By 1850 so many people had poured in that California was made a state.

This was another outstanding milestone. Statehood had hurled hundreds of miles of territory and had made its first appearance on the shores of the Pacific.

By 1850 railway trains were puffing back and forth from Massachusetts to Georgia, and even west of the Alleghenies; yet California still was farther out of travel reach with the seat of government than even the remotest of the thirteen original states had been in the days of Thomas Jefferson.

Nearly All of It Bought.
In almost every important addition to its territory which the United States has made, save Oregon territory, a money payment has played a part.

The Louisiana Purchase cost $23,213,667.73; Florida cost $5,000,000, including interest; Texas and its creditors were paid $15,496,447.77 to relinquish claim to lands outside the present state boundaries; Mexico was given $16,253,145.89 for its cession of territory in 1848.

In 1854 the final addition was made to continental United States as it now exists, when the Gadsden Purchase was made of 29,670 square miles south of the Gila river, in Arizona. For this tract $10,000,000 was paid to Mexico.

These five accessions to the United States proper cost $71,672,221.86.

A circle with a radius of only 1,000 feet drawn around the business center of Washington, D. C., incloses land assessed for almost exactly the amount paid for this far-spreading empire.

Territory outside the borders of continental United States bought since 1854 was more costly. Russia was paid $7,200,000 for Alaska in 1867; the Hawaiian national debt of $4,000,000 was assumed when the islands were annexed. In 1898, Spain was given $20,100,000 for islands annexed after the Spanish-American war.

The ten-mile strip of the Canal zone in Panama has cost the United States so far $15,000,000 paid to Panama and $25,000,000 paid to Colombia. In addition, the United States paid $40,000,000 to the New Panama Canal company of France. And Panama continues to receive $250,000 annually.

The latest territorial purchase by the United States was the Virgin Islands. For the 133 square miles of these Caribbean islands Denmark received $25,000,000 in 1917. That works out approximately $234 an acre—7,350 times the acre price paid for the Louisiana Purchase.

The total payments for outlying territory made since 1854 amount to $136,300,000.

These payments have all been in cash. Barter and land trades have never played a part in the growth of United States territory, as they did with the Dutch, who purchased Manhattan island for $24 worth of trinkets; and the English, who later got all Dutch claims to Manhattan and the rest of New York state in trade for what is now Dutch Guiana.

Council Will Hear Talk by Dr. Poling

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, world renowned speaker in the cause of youth, will be in Kingston on Friday evening, November 10, at the First Dutch Reformed Church at 8:15. Those who desire to attend and hear Dr. Poling must secure their registration cards in advance, either from Youth Council members or at the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. offices, or at the principal's office at the high school. Registrations will be made at the church.

Preceding Dr. Poling's address there will be a youth banquet at the First Presbyterian Church prepared and served by the ladies of the New Era League. Group singing, greetings from various societies, and cheers will feature the banquet. After supper, cars will convey those who attend the banquet to the First Dutch Church; Chief Wood and his men will be at strategic points along the way, and will aid in getting the group to the church on time. At the conclusion of the address, cars will again convey the delegates to the Y. W. C. A., where entertainment, a social and friendship circle will be held. Here, too, the birthday cake with two lighted candles signifying the end of two years of unselfish, loyal service by the local council will be cut.

Registration cards for those who desire to attend only the address at the First Dutch Church have been provided, and are on sale at the points mentioned above.

Dr. Poling has been active in all civic, religious and national affairs, especially since leaving the Marble Collegiate Church pastorate in New York. He was in the World War, and was severely gassed. Once in Ohio he ran for governor on the Prohibition ticket, and that year, through his organizing ability, his skill as a speaker, and his zeal for the cause his party increased their vote from 2,000 to 48,000.

Demonstration Of Low Cost Meals

Serving attractive meals at low cost will be the theme of the demonstration to be given by Miss Lillian Shaben, specialist in food preparation from the state college of home economics, Saturday afternoon, November 4. Through the courtesy of Rose and Gorman and the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. a magic chef range is being installed in the Home Service Department at 611 Broadway where the meeting will be held. The demonstration begins at 2 o'clock.

This meeting is for the purpose of training local women who come in from all parts of the county and who will return to their local sections to help as many as possible who are faced with the problem of planning to have the family well fed at little cost. Miss Shaben will show that even low cost foods can be made attractive and often are more nutritious than many of the more expensive foods.

The following local leaders have already been appointed to attend the demonstration: Accord, Mrs. Edward Davenport and Miss Bertha Coons; Flatbush, Mrs. Frank Kukuk, Mrs. Ellis Saulpaugh; Gardiner, Mrs. Louis LeFevre, Mrs. David DuBois; High Falls, Mrs. Arnold Van Laer; Mrs. John Hamm, Mrs. Lachen; Lake Katrine, Mrs. Donald Parish, Mrs. Annetta Roosa; Lomontville, Mrs.
